

Latitude Vacations Itinerary

FRANCE: French Riviera

The French Mediterranean is a privileged region. The sweetness of the climate, the beauty of the landscape, the variety of the stops, are associated with perfect sailing conditions.

The wind is barely very strong during the season, the sea is generally quiet, the tides and currents are mostly negligible, the shores and practically with no danger, the shelters are numerous, and the visibility is exceptional. Our base is in Bormes, which is located at the centre of the most beautiful cruising destinations.

If you only have one week, discover the Cote Varoise and the Iles d'Or. Less than 15 miles away, the islands of Le Levant, Port Cros and Porquerolles offer their charm, along with the moeings of Cabasson and Leoubé under the less of Cap Benat, and the bay of Cavalaire and Cap Lardier/ In a reach of 30 miles, St Tropez, St-Raphael and Agay await you. Cannes and the Iles de Lerins are only 10 miles further east. In the west, Cassis and the Calanques of Port-Moiu, Morgiou, and Sormiou are less than 50 miles away.

If you have two weeks or more, set sail to Corsica, Sardegna or the Balearic islands. From Bormes the closest Corsican harbour, is Calvi (110 miles). Before reaching Bonifacio, at 90 miles from Calvi, you have a large choice of moorings along the rocky west coast. In the Southwest, at 220 miles, you will find Minorca and the Baleares. You can reach them by a direct crossing, or with stops on the French Cote, Vermeille, or on the Spanish Costa Brava.
